Miss LaVerne Tells What She Thinks of the Opportunities Those of

On these pages are shown pictures of incidents in a shopping tour by Miss Lucille La Verne, who is so well and favorably known to Richmond theatre goers, and who has returned to this city at the head of her own company of players to fill an engagement at the Academy, in stock, during the spring and summer.

Miss La Verne is credited with being a "corking good shopper"—she has traveled about a bit and has shopped in many cities—and she did not overstate the fact when at the close of the day her verdict was that "Richmond stores contain everything that the heart of woman, no matter how fashionable a woman could wish." "I spent a most delightful day" said Miss La Verne "and the tour simply confirms my preconceived opinion that Richmond's stores are keeping up in every way with the wonderful march of progress."

Miss La Verne, being especially fond of fine Cameos, is seen making a selection from JAHNKE BROS., Jewelers, 912 East Main Street, where she found a variety of very pretty ones.

Miss La Verne selecting a frame at CRAIG'S ART STORE, 207 West Broad Street, for an exceptionally fine pastel portrait of herself (by White) in the character of Carmen.

Miss La Verne has a sweet tooth, and she is also particular in her selections; therefore, knowing that SHEPHERD'S (406 East Broad) is keen on quality, she dropped in to purchase some candies.

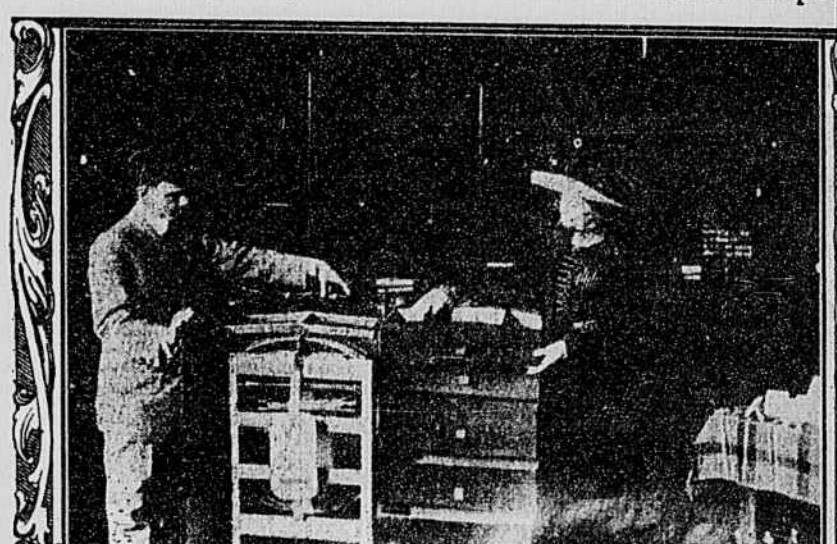

The words "flowers" and "HAMMOND'S" (109 East Broad) are to Miss La Verne synonymous, and she is here shown while selecting potted plants for a scene in "Ann Boyd."

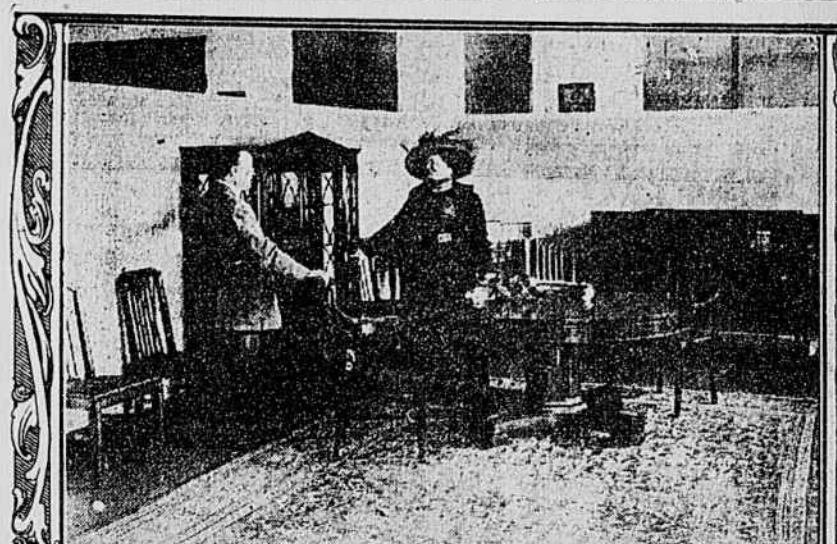

The man with the camera caught Miss La Verne in the act of having her hair dressed at HUGHES' HAIRDRESSING PARLORS, 209 North Third. She also complimented Miss Hughes on the splendid stock carried and the expert service rendered.

This is not the first visit of Miss La Verne to AARON, THE LADIES' TAILOR, at 403 East Franklin. Aaron will play a prominent part in costuming Miss La Verne and the lady members of her company.

Miss La Verne was greatly pleased with the wardrobe trunk she selected at ROUNTREE'S, 703 East Broad, and she also purchased a new traveling bag and a few leather novelties.

While being shown through the immense establishment of SYDNOR & HUNDLEY, corner Seventh and Grace Streets, Miss La Verne expressed herself as amazed at the wonderful stock of high-grade furniture carried.

The picture shows Miss La Verne arranging with SPITZER, the cleaner and presser, 112 North Eighth, to render exclusive service this summer in keeping the costumes bright and smart and in "doing up" the delicate lace and embroidery of the ladies' costumes.
